However, our clients, if they can afford it, will choose to continue to search for housing that is well maintained. • Provide or attract supportive services to improve assisted recipients’ employability – we encourage participation at the job center, temp services or our local technical college • Provide or attract supportive services to increase independence for the elderly or families with disabilities – our county has excellent services for the elderly/disabled and when I meet with applicants or current recipients I make sure they are aware of them all – from transportation to hearing aid loans, dentures, in home services, meals on wheels, etc. • We make our clients aware of all available resources in the community – job center, temp services, food pantries, commodities, referrals to Social Service agencies, HELP of Door County. Our goal with families to help them through a difficult time in their life until they become self-sufficient – Door county has a lot of seasonal employment so transitioning families to complete self-sufficiency is difficult since they work in the summer but have limited income from Unemployment Compensation in the winter. • We continue to undertake affirmative measures to ensure access to assisted housing and a suitable living environment for families regardless of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, familial status and disability (b) Significant Amendment and Substantial Deviation/Modification. Violence Against Women

The Door County Housing Authority has incorporated the Violence Against Women provisions into the Administrative Plan. We have had no clients that have approached us with a situation applicable to this provision. The plan states that we will have brochures in our waiting area “Violence Against Women in Federally Funded Rental Assisted Housing”. We have a wonderful agency in our area that works with victims of domestic violence – HELP of Door County – and if we had to address a situation we would work in conjunction with them for a resolution.
