Administering Section 8 Only

ii. Executive Summary of the Annual PHA Plan

[24 CFR Part 903.7 9 (r)]

A INTRODUCTION

The City of Pasadena is experiencing significant economic prosperity; the economy is growing, unemployment is low, and house prices and rents are escalating. The City is a very desirable place to work and live and has a world-class reputation. This prosperity is not shared by all of its citizens and is increasing the demand on the housing market and making it more difficult for residents with limited income and skills to continue to afford to live in Pasadena.

The PHA Annual Plan is designed to enable the Pasadena Community Development Commission (PCDC) establish a strategy for addressing the housing needs of the City of Pasadena. It offers the PCDC the opportunity to shape its various rental assistance programs into effective, coordinated, neighborhood and community development strategies.

This executive summary describes the key elements of the PHA Annual Plan. These elements include:

1. Housing Needs Assessment/Market Analysis
2. Strategy for Addressing Housing Needs
3. Housing Initiatives

B. BACKGROUND

The City of Pasadena's Tenant – based Rental Assistance Program (RAP) serves the jurisdiction within the city boundaries and is operated under the authority of the Pasadena Community Development Commission (PCDC) which is the designated local housing authority/agency (HA) established by the City in April 1989. The former Pasadena Housing Authority was consolidated with the Redevelopment Agency as the PCDC, a single operating entity and board, created under the Section 34115 of the State of California Health and Safety Code. The City Council acts as the PCDC and exercises all the rights, powers, duties, and responsibilities of the housing agency. As such, the PCDC has administered the Rental Assistance Program (formerly Section 8 Program) since 1970. With an initial allocation of seventy (70) units, the program has grown under succeeding Annual Contributions Contracts

(ACC) with HUD to 1303 units under the Housing Choice Voucher Program, 15 units under the Housing Opportunities for Persons with AIDS (HOPWA), 30 units under the HOME Tenant-based Rental Assistance program, 40 units under the Shelter Plus Care (S+C) Tenant-based Rental Assistance program (TRA), and 45 units/beds under the Supportive Housing Program for a total of 1,426 units/beds. This represents assistance for approximately three percent (3%) of the 54,236 households residing within the City of Pasadena.

Additionally, over 500 owners are participating in the PCDC Rental Assistance Program (RAP). For the fiscal year 1998-1999, total rental assistance payments on behalf of program participants was $11 million.

RAP objectives are implemented in accordance with HUD regulations, policies and procedures governing the programs, the PCDC Rental Assistance Administrative Plan, and Equal Housing Opportunity Plan. Additionally, the Annual Plan was developed in tandem with the Implementation Plan, General Plan Housing Element and Consolidated Plan to ensure consistency with all City housing policies and strategies.

Administration of the Rental Assistance Program shall be in compliance with the City of Pasadena Personnel Policies and the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development's (HUD) QWHRA Regulations as well as all Federal, State and local Fair Housing Laws and Regulations.

C. HOUSING NEED ASSESSMENT/MARKET ANALYSIS

The City of Pasadena represents a high cost sub-market within the Los Angeles-Long Beach Metropolitan Statistical Area (MSA) which is distinctly different from the rest of the MSA housing market. Based on PCDC analysis of the 1990 Census, specifically the Renter Occupied Housing Unit Gross Median Rent characteristic and a PCDC June, 1998 rent survey, it was determined that the median rent for nineteen (19) of the twenty-nine (29) census tracts located within the City of Pasadena were significantly higher than the October 1, 1998 HUD published Fair Market Rents (FMRs). The resultant mean market rent, adjusted for utility allowance (gas and electricity), typically exceeded the gross adjusted Fair Market Rent (FMR) by 115% or more. The remaining ten (10) census tracts demonstrated median rents in excess of one hundred percent (100%) of 1998 HUD FMRs.

The most recent housing market analysis and housing needs assessment contained within the Consolidated Plan further highlights the housing conditions in the City of Pasadena and the affordable housing needs of its residents. The most significant implications are listed below:

- In January 2001, Pasadena had an estimated population of 145,000 residents, which represented a 9.4% increase from 131,591 in 1990. Similarly, there were 51,353 households residing in Pasadena compared to 50,199 in 1990. This represents an increase of 1,154 households or 2%.

- Based on the increases in population for the past decade, it is expected that the increase in population for 2000 - 2005 will continue to be close to the annual average percentage of .7% for the past ten years. Based on this percentage, the city's total population will be approximately 148,589 in 2005.
- In March, 2000, the Los Angeles County median household income was $52,100. Based on the County median income, in Pasadena, approximately 26% of the households are very low income (0-50% of median income), 16% are low income (51-80% of median income), 19% are moderate income (81-120% of median income), and 39% are upper income (120+% of median income). Approximately 61% of the households are low to moderate income.
- There are a significant number of households with special affordable and/or supportive housing needs. These populations include seniors, disabled persons, large households, single parent families with children, homeless individuals, persons living with HIV/AIDS, substance abusers in recovery, and recipients of public assistance.
- During the past decade, the percentage growth in households has been consistent with the percentage increase in housing units. Pasadena had a total of 54,236 housing units in 1999 compared to 53,032 in 1990. This represents a total increase of approximately 2% (1,204 units) since 1990.
- Pasadena's share of the Southern California Association of Government (SCAG) region's future housing need is estimated at 1,777 housing units. The percentages of units that must be planned for by level of affordability are: – 26% very low income, 16% low income, 19% moderate income and 39% for above moderate income.
- High land costs, construction costs, and market financing contribute to the cost of housing investment, and potentially hinder the production of new affordable housing units. Coupled with the limited availability of vacant land, these constraints make future development of affordable housing without city intervention unlikely.
- The percentage of rental units will increase significantly. Approximately 44% of Pasadena's 54,236 housing units are ownership and over 56% are rentals. Based on current development trends, more rental units are being constructed. These new rental developments are targeted toward the upper income households. Presently, there is limited production of rental units affordable to low to moderate-income households, thereby increasing the demand for more affordable units.
- Larger homes will be desired. New single-family for-sale developments are likely to consist of 3 or more bedrooms based on the market's demand for larger units. Significant rehabilitation is also likely to occur as homeowners seek to enlarge their existing homes.

- There are 27 publicly assisted, multifamily housing developments in Pasadena which are providing 1,691 affordable rental housing units. 13 of these housing developments (1,058 rental units) are at-risk of conversion to market-rate housing during the next five years.
- Affordable senior housing will be needed. Currently, seniors over 65 years of age represent approximately 11% of the total population and 21% for those over 55. Similarly, 56% of the total senior households are lower income (below 80% of the median income). While regionally the senior population may be increasing, given the history of out-migration of seniors from Pasadena for a variety of reasons, it is probable that the city's senior population (age 65+) percentage will remain constant or possibly decline. Nevertheless, there is a growing need for affordable senior housing based on the continued loss of currently available subsidized senior units. Absence the availability of affordable units, seniors will be forced out of the city due to their inability to pay the rising housing costs.
- In 2000, the median home price in Pasadena was $281,000 and the current median rent is $850 while the estimated median family income is $54,707. Using California and HUD's rule of 30% of the household income for housing cost, a mortgage payment of $1,757 a month is required to afford the median priced home assuming a down payment of 10%, annual interest rate of 7.5% and a 30 year mortgage. Based on the same rule, 30% of $54,707 supports a monthly mortgage payment of only $1,368 or a home priced at $196,871. The vast majority of Pasadena residents cannot afford the median-priced home. Presently, 14% of the households (7,826) in Pasadena cannot afford more than $417 per month in housing costs and 6,663 households (12%) cannot afford more than $684. If housing costs continue to escalate, the need for affordable housing opportunities will be critical. The median housing cost increased by approximately 7.5% last year, home prices up $20,000 and rentals up $55.
- The subsidy needed per household to provide affordable housing opportunities is increasing. If housing costs continue to rise faster than incomes, the dollars needed to assist one household will increase significantly. For example, if home prices continue to increase, the down payment and closing assistance needed per household may increase from the current $35,000 to $45,000+, or if rents continue to increase, the annual rental subsidy required might increase from $6,000 per household per year to $7,000+ per year. Without more funds or alternate incentives for affordable housing opportunities, the number of low and moderate-income households assisted will decrease substantially.

In both analysis noted above, it is clearly evident that, rents have steadily increased during the past fifteen years. One-bedroom rentals increased from $435 in 1985 to $569 in 1995 representing an increase of 30.8%, while two bedroom rentals increased 40.7% and three bedroom rentals increased 43.5% during the same time period. Rentals also increased from 1995 to 1999, a one-bedroom rental increased in cost from $569 to $650, representing a 14.2% increase. During the same period, two bedroom rentals increased by 1% and three-bedroom rentals increased by 20.5%;

Extremely low, low, and moderate-income households, in varying degrees, have experienced "housing overpayment" which caused them to spend more than 30% of their income for housing. Extremely low-income households paid more than 30% of their median income in housing costs for one, two, or three bedroom rentals. Low-income households paid 30% or less of their income for a one-bedroom rental but more than 30% for two or more bedroom rentals. Moderate-income households paid 30% or less of their income for one and two bedroom rentals but their cost for three or more bedroom rentals was greater than 30%.

The following tables illustrate the relationship between income and housing affordability. As can be seen, neither extremely low nor low-income households could afford the City's average rent in 1997.

D. STRATEGY FOR ADDRESSING HOUSING NEEDS

It is evident from a review of the data that previously affordable housing in Pasadena will become more difficult for extremely low, low and moderate-income households to access. The cost of housing in the city will require these households to expend significantly more financial resources for housing. The housing market analysis and needs assessment has provided the factual basis for developing an affordable housing strategy. The primary goal of the affordable housing is to:

Increase, improve and preserve the supply of quality affordable housing available for all segments of the community.

The objectives and policies identified to meet this goal include:

Objectives:

1. Promote the new construction of 2,186 housing units (ownership & rental).
2. Create 1,100 newly constructed affordable housing units.
3. Provide financial assistance for the rehabilitation of 750 affordable units (rental and ownership).
4. Provide financial assistance to approximately 300 extremely low, low and moderate income homebuyers.
5. Provide annual rental assistance for 1,300 extremely low and low-income households.
6. Establish and record long-term affordability covenants for all city-assisted units.
7. Implement the city's fair housing plan that addresses the noted impediments to fair housing opportunities.

Policies:

1. Encourage the preservation of existing affordable rental housing units.
2. Promote and strengthen implementation of a comprehensive continuum of care strategy which includes outreach/assessment, coordination and collaboration of emergency shelters and transitional housing with support services, permanent service-enriched housing and permanent housing, for addressing homelessness and priority needs of homeless and at-risk individuals and families.
3. Promote and maintain continued participation by property owners in rental assistance programs.
4. Identify, leverage and effectively utilize all available funding sources (local and other) for affordable housing.
5. Promote a balanced geographic dispersal of assisted affordable housing developments including emergency shelters, transitional housing, service-enriched permanent housing, independent-living permanent housing, and associated supportive social services for individuals/households, throughout the city.
6. Implement the General Plan goal of an inclusionary zoning ordinance that requires 10 - 20 percent of the total number of housing units in new developments to be affordable to extremely low, low or moderate income households.

7. Encourage consideration of establishing "in lieu fees" whereby developers are given the option to pay fees in lieu of providing a required number of below market-rate units.

E. HOUSING INITIATIVES

The PCDC believes new housing initiatives are necessary to meet this growing affordable housing need. To provide some level of relief and alleviate some of the housing burden, the PCDC has identified fourteen (14) initiatives that not only expand the rental housing choice, but also provide the opportunities for homeownership.

These initiatives are to:

1. Exception rents, where appropriate, that are 110% and higher than the current Fair Market Rent (FMR) to deconcentrate rental assistance program participants in high poverty areas and give them greater housing choice,
2. Provision of financial incentives in the form of "hard to house" fees to increase participation of property owners in the rental assistance program,
3. New construction of rental housing developments, especially senior housing, for low and very low income households citywide,
4. Below market interest rate subsidy rehabilitation program for owner occupant low income borrowers,
5. Annual rental covenant compliance monitoring to ensure owners of agency assisted units comply with their requirements to provide affordable housing to lower income households that meet specified occupancy, income and rent guidelines,
6. Implementation of a continuum of care strategy which includes outreach, intake, assessment, coordination, and collaboration with providers of emergency shelters, transitional housing with supportive services, permanent service-enriched housing and permanent housing for addressing homeless and at-risk to homeless populations,
7. Leverage additional financial resources for the provision of affordable lower income housing including Federal National Mortgage Association – American Communities Fund and Down Payment Assistance Investment Note, California Housing Finance – Housing Enabling Local Partnership (HELP), Low Income Housing Tax Credits, Mortgage Revenue Bond Financing, HUD Section 202/811,
8. Expand implementation of the Fair Housing Plan and performance of an FY 2000 Analysis of Impediments to Fair Housing Choice,
9. First source employment agreements with city and agency sponsored housing developments,
10. Expansion of the Family Self Sufficiency Program to support additional households achieve economic self-sufficiency within a five year period,

11. Provision of homeownership opportunities for HCVP participant through the PCDC Lease to Purchase program which allows for the use of Housing Assistance Payments (HAP) toward the purchase of a home,
12. Application of universal design standards to encourage and/or condition city and agency assisted housing developments to meet accessibility and adaptability requirements,

13. Support implementation of the General Plan goal of an inclusionary zoning ordinance that requires 10-20 % of the total units in a new housing development be affordable to low and moderate income households,
14. Support provision of density bonus and city fee waivers to encourage the development of affordable low income housing units.

C. Strategy for Addressing Needs

Housing Vision

It is the contention of the PCDC that all Pasadena residents have an equal right to live in decent, safe and affordable housing in a suitable living environment for the long-term well-being and stability of themselves, their families, their neighborhoods and their community. The housing vision for Pasadena is to maintain a socially and economically diverse community of homeowners and renters who are afforded this right.

The PCDC shall achieve this vision by utilizing its resources to:

- Support and provide for fair and equal housing opportunities for all persons regardless of race, age, income, disability, sexual orientation, marital status, household size, ancestry, national origin, religion, or color;
- Provision of an adequate supply and range of housing opportunities throughout the City by assisting in the development of new housing, preservation of existing housing, and being responsive to the special housing needs of certain resident populations;
- Reduction or mitigation of governmental constraints which hinder the production, preservation, maintenance and improvement of housing, particularly affordable housing, for Pasadena residents;
- Ensure that Pasadena residents, especially those with extremely low to moderate incomes and special needs, are assisted in meeting their housing needs through the provision of assistance for rental, residential rehabilitation, homeownership, housing counseling, (and other housing support services);

- Conservation and improvement of the condition of the existing affordable housing stock, which may include ways to mitigate the loss of dwelling units;
- Preservation of the existing assisted housing for lower income households.

Affordable Housing Strategy

The primary goal of the PCDC is to:

Goal: Increase, improve and preserve the supply of quality affordable housing available for all segments of the community.

The objectives and policies identified to meet this goal include:

Objectives:

1. Promote the new construction of 2,186 housing units (ownership & rental).
2. Create 1,100 newly constructed affordable housing units.
3. Provide financial assistance for the rehabilitation of 750 affordable units (rental and ownership).
4. Provide financial assistance to approximately 300 extremely low, low and moderate income homebuyers.
5. Provide annual rental assistance for 1,300 extremely low and low-income households.
6. Establish and record long-term affordability covenants for all city-assisted units.
7. Implement the city's fair housing plan that addresses the noted impediments to fair housing opportunities.
8. Maintain a 95% Section 8 lease-up rate by utilizing an appropriate payment standard that enables families to rent units throughout the city.

Policies:

1. Encourage the preservation of existing affordable rental housing units.
2. Promote and strengthen implementation of a comprehensive continuum of care strategy which includes outreach/assessment, coordination and collaboration of emergency shelters and transitional housing with support services, permanent service-enriched housing and permanent housing, for addressing homelessness and priority needs of homeless and at-risk individuals and families.

3. Promote and maintain continued participation by property owners in rental assistance programs.
4. Identify, leverage and effectively utilize all available funding sources (local and other) for affordable housing.
5. Promote a balanced geographic dispersal of assisted affordable housing developments including emergency shelters, transitional housing, service-enriched permanent housing, independent-living permanent housing, and associated supportive social services for individuals/households, throughout the city.
6. Implement the General Plan goal of an inclusionary zoning ordinance that requires 10 - 20 percent of the total number of housing units in new developments to be affordable to extremely low, low or moderate income households.
7. Encourage consideration of establishing "in lieu fees" whereby developers are given the option to pay fees in lieu of providing a required number of below market-rate units.

The Strategies to be employed are as follows:

(1) Strategies

Need: Shortage of affordable housing for all eligible populations

- Homeownership Opportunities Program (HOP) – This program provides a second trust deed loan up to $45,000 for low- income homebuyers and up to $30,000 for moderate-income homebuyers. The HOP loan has a below market interest rate and a term of 20-30 years. Monthly low payments are required, but in some cases, may be deferred during the first five (5) years.
- Mortgage Credit Certificate (MCC) Program – This program provides first-time homebuyers with a federal income tax credit, which increases their ability to qualify for a mortgage. The amount of the tax credit is equal to fifteen percent (15%) of the homebuyer's annual mortgage interest payments. This amount is applied annually as a dollar-for-dollar credit against the homeowner's federal income tax liability.
- Lease-Purchase Program – This program is offered by the California Cities Home Ownership Authority (CCHOA) and provides thirty-eight (38) months "Option to Purchase" with gifted down payment and closing cost. The program participant picks the home of their choice and CCHOA will purchase the home on their behalf. The program participant will then enter into a "Lease with Option to Purchase" agreement, after which they may assume the loan and take title to the home at no additional transfer cost.
- Section 8 Lease-Purchase Program – This program allows rental assistance program participant to utilize HAP payments toward the purchase of a home.
