Attachment A

Deconcentration is defined as “an admissions policy designed to provide for deconcentration of poverty and income-mixing by bringing higher income tenants into lower income projects and low income tenants into higher income projects”. The income considerations of the pool of potential eligible applicants will make it very difficult to achieve deconcentration levels established by the 1998 Act.

However, the Housing Authority of the City of Millen will make every effort to meet the requirements of income targeting, income mixing and deconcentration as specified by the 1998 Act. There are several challenges in meeting the income targeting, deconcentration and income mix policies of the Authority. Applicants are selected from a waiting list, and if the Housing Authority of the City of Millen elects to do so, families on the waiting list may be skipped in order to meet the requirements of income targeting, deconcentration and income mix requirements. Applicants are offered the next available, appropriate size unit. If the applicant turns down the offering(s), the family goes to the bottom of the waiting list.
